

CHRIS EAT CHRIS WORLD

NHS students vote on which Hollywood Chris is the best of the best

Addie Doherty//addie.dohert22@gmail.com

Bergan Zebrauskas//bergan.zebrauskas@gmail.com

Attention all diehards, stans, and memers! Fans everywhere have debated this topic and it seems the time has come to finally answer the question pressing on everyone's minds (yes everyone): Who is the best Chris? Hollywood is made up of many stars, and with a common name like "Chris," it's even harder to stand out. Of the four most famous Chrises – Chris Evans, Chris Hemsworth, Chris Pine, and Chris Pratt – with numerous collabs and crossovers between them during their careers, audiences have debated which of them is the best. In an attempt to answer this question, NHS students voted for their favorites, as well as for the funniest, hottest, the best actor, and the best role.

Listen up folks, Chris Evans is the only single Chris on our list. (We're not saying there's a chance, just that no one's looking to crush that dream anytime soon.) Evans, best known for his role as Captain America, is 39-years old, and has had many different iconic facial hair styles over the years. Evans is known to be more sensitive and passionate, often supporting charities and visiting children in hospital...what a cool guy. He has also performed on Broadway, starring in "Lobby Hero." Another big aspect of Evans' life is his pooch, Dodger. Evans even got Dodger a matching sweater to repeat his iconic look in the movie "Knives Out" (2019). Evans' big heart and kind eyes are well-beloved by many, as he is arguably the most relatable Chris out there—who doesn't love their dog? His great acting in the movie "Gifted" (2017) left audiences in tears and impressed with his range. Chris Evans' kindness and compassion are the perfect reasons why he should be crowned best Chris.

Chris Hemsworth, the 37 year old Australian actor, made himself an A-list celebrity in Hollywood through his role in "Thor" (2011). His blond locks and funny antics were beloved by the world. His accent and ripped figure are some of his more popular features, but his humorous and kind personality are not to be forgotten. He is also known for his fitness app, "Centr" (which clearly works, just look at the man). His younger brother, Liam Hemsworth, is also a well-loved actor, however, he doesn't even begin to compare to the masterpiece of a man that is Chris Hemsworth. This heartthrob has taken the spotlight in comedies such as "Ghostbusters" (2016), action movies such as "Extraction" (2020), and horror movies such as "Cabin in the Woods" (2011). Overall, his incredible acting range cannot be disputed. His handsome looks and amazing performances may carry him to the top of the leaderboard, especially in the "Hotness" category.

Chris Pratt, having played one iconic character after another throughout his acting career beginning with his role as Andy Dwyer on Parks and Recreation, has continued to impress audiences with his progression into more action-based movies like "Jurassic World" and "Guardians of the Galaxy." His major glow-up in preparation for his role as Peter Quill took the world by storm and made fans of any of his productions fall even more in love. The actor himself has proven to be quite similar to his most famous characters as his comedic timing and the general hilarity that is his personality is pretty hard to miss. Not only is he a silly, down-to-earth guy, but he also has been very involved with the Feed Thy Neighbor organization to help give food to those in need. Clearly he's a man of both talent and quality. It wouldn't be surprising if Chris Pratt wins the "Funniest Chris" poll, but there's also a good chance he could be voted the best Chris of all time. Continue to find out!

Chris Pine may not be the most recognized of the Chrises, however he is still a great actor nonetheless. His dedication, delivery, and not to mention phenomenal acting make each of his performances, no matter the genre, deserving of acknowledgement. For those that may recognize him primarily from that one Christmas tree vine, Pine is also famous for his role as Captain Kirk in the "Star Trek" installments as well as being Lord Nicholas Devereaux in "The Princess Diaries 2: Royal Engagement." Pine is the only one out of the four Chrises to not be featured in a live-action Marvel film, opting to join the DCU instead (no judgement here). Chris Pine has clearly earned himself a spot as one the most beloved and appreciated Chrises in all of Hollywood and just may win the spot of "Best Chris."

After collecting the results from the survey, there were a few categories that were significantly less split than others, one of them being the category for the “Most Attractive” Chris. Three of the four contestants make up less than half of the votes, and while anyone with half a brain would know that there is no way that Chris Pine could beat out Chris Pratt, who placed last with less than 5% (there seem to be a lot of “The Princess Diaries 2” stans in the audience). However, Pine didn’t win either, placing in third (10.7%) behind Evans (33.9%), leaving Hemsworth to ultimately win this category with his combination of both rock hard abs and chiseled features winning over more than 51% of voters.

The actor with the best personality among the bunch was a close race for first place... well, for most of the contestants. Pine was not in-it-to-win-it, with only a few votes in his favor. Hemsworth and Evans battled for second place, with Evans barely pulling forward, beating Hemsworth by one vote. This leaves the first place winner, with the best personality—most likely due to his ability to make others laugh, and help those in need—to be Chris Pratt, coming in with 37.4% of voters on his side. Pratt’s shimmering personality and selflessness landed him at the top of the podium, earning him the “Best Personality” award, which if he knew, he’d surely cherish forever.

Although every Chris has had their moment in the spotlight, some roles are more iconic than others. The superheroes, villains, and comic reliefs portrayed by the Chrises are beloved by many, but which actor was the best? Unfortunately, Chris Pine’s roles in “Wonder Woman” and “Star Trek” did not leave a lasting impression on many, as not a single vote went out to Pine. Hemsworth’s iconic roles in “Thor” and “Ghostbusters” earned him 27% of votes, but that still only got him to third. Pratt’s hilarious roles put up an amazing fight against Evans’ roles but just couldn’t beat them. Evans has won the title for “Best Role,” with Pratt ending with just 1% behind him. Be real, without Evans, these roles just wouldn’t be the same!

An effective measure of a good actor is their ability to blend seamlessly in with the character they are portraying, and as previously discussed, each of the Chrises have shown incredible skill in their acting. Not only are their characters role models for many, the actors themselves have all shown to be pretty remarkable people as well. Chris Pratt and Chris Evans especially are both spectacular examples of these ideas, and as a result, have been tied for first in the category for “Best Chris” throughout the voting. In the end, Chris Evans pulled ahead to first place, just barely beating out Chris Pratt with almost 40% of votes by the end of the poll, a mere three votes breaking the tie and leading Evans to victory. Agree or disagree, Chris Evans has officially won the NHS poll for “Best Chris,” with his combined skills in both acting and being a generally awesome human being, he has rightfully earned his spot as the “Best Chris” in Hollywood and is deserving of such recognition. Everyone who voted for Evans has now been awarded bragging rights, and for the whopping three people who thought Chris Pine was the best, well, yikes. Thus concludes the years-long debate on which Chris is the best, and now the world will know that Chris Evans reigns superior as he has now been officially crowned “The Best.”

Is this even a question? Who’s the funniest Chris? No, it’s not, because the answer is so obvious, 62.5% of NHS survey takers answered correctly as it’s Chris Pratt (also known as “crisp rat” for some reason as voters have shared). Pratt’s competition doesn’t even come close to matching his hilarious demeanor and comedic genius. Evans took second place, with a mere 21.4% of voters on his side. Third place went to Hemsworth, with 14.3% of voters believing he is the funniest Chris. And then there’s poor, poor Pine. Though Pine may have placed higher than Pratt in handsomeness, he doesn’t even compare when it comes to Pratt’s sense of humor. Chris Pine comes in dead last, with one single, solitary vote. Pratt’s hilarious antics and funny roles won him this glorious title, now to the rest!

Though all the Chrises are all A-list celebrities with plenty of acting experience and training under their belts, only one can win the prize of “Best Actor.” The variety of different roles allows them each Chris to display their amazing skills, but who is the best? Ultimately, NHS students decided that Chris Evans wins the title with 33.9% of the votes, due to his amazing acting skills in films like “Knives Out,” “Avengers Infinity War,” and “Gifted.” His range and ability to make a role come to life make him the best fit for this award. Not too far behind him are Pratt and Pine tied for second (the latter finally got higher than 10%), with Hemsworth bringing up the rear in last place. Though Evans gets the award for best actor, and is deserving of it, all of the Chrises acting skills shouldn’t be underestimated.

